Student Consultation Policy and Procedure

STUDENT CONSULTATION POLICY AND PROCEDURE

1. Overview

The Institute of International Studies (“the Institute”) is committed to ensuring that all teaching staff are available for face-to-face and online student consultation during each trimester of study (including mid-trimester break, study week and the examination period).

This policy outlines the mechanism by which all teaching staff (including full-time, part-time, casual and sessional staff) will make themselves available to assist students with academic matters outside scheduled class times.

2. Availability of Teaching Staff for Student consultation

2.1 Availability for Face-to-Face Consultation

All teaching staff (including full-time, part-time, casual and sessional staff) will make themselves available for at least one hour per week for each subject they are teaching in order to allow students to consult on issues related specifically to those subjects. This means that a full-time staff member delivering four subjects will be available for student consultation four hours per week during the trimester, a part-time staff member delivering two subjects will be available for two hours per week, while a casual or sessional staff member delivering one subject will be available for one hour per week.

Where a staff member will be available for more than two hours per week, availability must be scheduled for at least two sessions on different days of the week.

Casual or sessional staff may align their consultation times with scheduled classes.

Consultation times should take into account the needs of specific cohorts of students, such as part-time students.

2.2 Approval of Proposed Consultation Times

Teaching staff must advise the Course Coordinator of their proposed consultation hours at the beginning of each trimester. The Course Coordinator will either approve the proposed consultation times or, where the times appear to be less than favourable for the majority of students, liaise with the staff member concerned to negotiate revised student consultation times.

2.3 Advising Students of Availability

Approved consultation times for each individual member of teaching staff will be published in the Subject Study Guide for any subject that they are teaching. Student consultation times for all teaching staff will be published on the Institute’s intranet.

2.4 Consultation Sessions

Where a teacher utilises a shared office, consultation sessions may be held in a vacant lecture/tutorial room, interview room or office but wherever the consultation is held, confidentiality should be ensured at all times.

2.5 Online Consultation

Students are provided with access to email accounts to facilitate asynchronous communications with the Institute at all times. Students are required to utilise their registered Institute email account to contact teaching staff outside of scheduled consultation times, where appropriate. The contact email address for teaching staff will be published in each Subject Study Guide for the subjects that they are teaching.

Teaching staff are required to respond to emails from students within two business days. Where a significant issue arises from email communication the staff member should make every effort to meet the student face-to-face or by telephone as soon as possible to discuss the matter.

3. Availability of Non-teaching Staff

The Academic Director and Course Coordinators are available for student consultation by appointment. In the case of urgent matters, non-teaching staff will make themselves available as soon as possible to discuss the matter with the student.

Support staff are also available to assist students in a range of non-academic matters as detailed in the Student Handbook.
